

Here We GROW Again

Report from the Building Committee

Welcome to our new world. The tower isn't a tower but a "vertical element." Studs aren't nearly as exciting as some might think. Having a "construction manager at risk" is ok; it is just a title.

Your Building Committee has met for the second time and we're learning a new vocabulary as we get right to work. We met with John Moses, from P.J. Hoerr, Inc., to learn about options for working with architects and building contractors; there are new choices even since our present church was built. At the August meeting, this discussion will continue.

When our current church was planned, many people made wonderful suggestions that were incorporated into the building. For instance, a group attending a meeting at a church in Ohio were very excited about what they had seen and heard there. Their suggestions resulted in the addition of a tech loft and technical capabilities to the plans that were being developed. We take those video screens for granted now but they are here only because a few people enthusiastically began that discussion.

Your input is important this time as well. Please share your comments with any committee member: Larry Phillips (Chairperson), Betty Dorsey (Vice-Chairperson), Deb Amdor (Secretary), Mike Kreun, Richard Nielsen, Nancy Behrens, Julie Dunbar, Chad Beaty, and Mike Crane.
